

FUNDING CIRCLE STUDY VISIT

GLOBAL SME FINANCE FORUM 2019

Overview of the visit:

Enabling real funding to stimulate the real economy

It was widely observed that after the financial crisis bank lending to small businesses retrenched. It is less well recognised that ten years on, the most creditworthy small businesses still struggle to access finance through traditional routes. Lending platforms, by connecting small businesses directly with a wide range of investors, have been able for the first time to open a whole new asset class to a global pool of capital.

During this interactive study tour we will take you on board the journey of how we connect small businesses with global capital pools, boosting economic growth and employment. We will look into market developments, the platformization of financial services as well as the increasing interest in the SME asset class.
